

God Protects His House

One morning, I woke up and couldn't find my phone. It didn't bother me because that was normal—I misplace it often. But I got worried when my wife went downstairs with an anxious look on her face and said, "I can't find my phone."

And then I realized, my laptop was missing, too.

That's when we figured that someone had entered our house and taken all our gadgets.

Do you know what we did after that? We built a tall electric fence around our house with 50,000 volts—yes, like what they had in Jurassic Park. A T-Rex will not be able to enter our home. We also hired former sumo wrestlers as our security guards.

Just kidding. Here's what we did: We protected our property because this is our house. No one touches it.

When the devil wants to enter your life, God will fight for you. You're His house. He loves His house. He won't let intruders come in.

God will fight for you.

God will fight for His house.

Here's my message: Don't be preoccupied with fighting the devil. Be preoccupied with following Jesus. Don't be preoccupied with fighting the enemy outside you; focus on welcoming God inside you.

The Bible says, "Greater is He that is in you, than he that is in the world" (1 John 4:4, KJV).

Fact: It's impossible to remove a bad habit. The only way to remove a bad habit is to replace it with a good habit. In the same way, you can't remove an evil spirit in your life—it will just return. You need to replace it with the Holy Spirit.

But I've got good news for you. If you're following Jesus, you're not empty. There's already Someone living in you. The Bible says, "Don't you realize that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit, who lives in you and was given to you by God?" (1 Corinthians 6:19).

You are God's house. And He will protect you. F
